7TH ANNUAL NATIONAL ‘LOCAL OUTREACH TO SUICIDE SURVIVORS’ (LOSS) TEAM CONFERENCE

Strength in Numbers: Engaging the Community in Suicide Postvention

Hyatt Regency Phoenix - Downtown

This conference is an opportunity for Suicide Loss Survivors, mental health professionals, first responders, school counselors, LOSS Team members, and others from the community to learn more about suicide postvention (helping Survivors after a suicide has occurred), and the Active Postvention Model known as LOSS (Local Outreach to Suicide Survivors) Team.

FEATURED SPEAKERS:
Frank Campbell, PhD, LCSW
Developer of the LOSS Team model

It was due to Dr. Campbell’s more than twenty years of working with those bereaved by suicide that he introduced his Active Postvention Model (APM) most commonly known as the LOSS Team (Local Outreach to Suicide Survivors). His work with survivors and victims of trauma has been featured in three Discovery channel documentaries.

Stuart Smith, MA, LPC
Clinical Coordinator of The Link Counseling Center

Stuart will be offering a special afternoon session on Monday, April 24th, specific to Survivors of Suicide, to deepen and expand their understanding of grief related to loss by suicide.

Reclaiming Our Joy: A Basic Plan For Surviving The Holidays After The Loss Of A Loved One

Linda L. Flatt, 1998

Shortly after my son’s suicide in 1993, a wise counselor told me not to let that death take away my joy. At the time, those words fell on deaf ears. But, as the days passed and healing began, his guidance became my mission - to somehow reclaim my joy after experiencing the incomprehensible suicide death of my child. The powerful and overwhelming emotions that embody the grieving process tend to be magnified during the holidays - a time when memories of our missing loved ones are especially painful. Family gatherings are wearying reminders of the stark reality of our loss. Here are some steps that we can take together to endeavor to recover our God-given joy during a difficult holiday season.

Decide to Prepare: Plan ahead for the pitfalls of holiday bereavement. Educate yourself in the fine art of surviving the holidays and equip yourself for the season. Beware of the expectations of others and choose to get through the holidays your way! Determine to Feel: Give yourself permission to grieve during the holidays instead of “stuffing” or denying your emotions. Resist the urge to “shut down” emotionally until next year. Trust me, the feelings will still be on that shelf on January 1st, and they will, more than likely, be even more powerful and destructive than they were in December. Commit to Connect: Choose to be around safe, supportive people during the holidays - people who will let you have your grief. Make a conscious decision to stay connected to God and His people at a time when you may want to isolate to ease your pain. We serve a loving, comforting God, and there is great healing in His community. Reach out and take the light and love that others offer during the holidays—and, in turn, give whatever you can to those who reach out to you.
One of these days, you will realize you got through the day without crying.
One of these days, you will bite into a piece of fruit and actually taste the sweetness.
One of these days, you will find yourself smiling.
One of these days, you will recognize again that stranger in the mirror.
One of these days, you will notice that the season has changed.
One of these days, you will feel the sun on your face.
One of these days, you will laugh out loud.
One of these days, you will wake and not dread the day ahead.
One of these days, you will speak their name and smile.
One of these days, you will come to terms that for all your questions there are no answers.
One of these days, when you are ready, you will know you’ll be okay—not whole ever again, but okay.
One of these days………

Holiday Reflections
By Bettye and Sam Rosenberg

When snowflakes dance on winter winds and colored lights shine Christmas cheer, when children’s laughter fills the air and families gather from far and near, I try to celebrate with them And not let my hurting show. But the empty space within my heart, at this season, seems to grow. ’Till often times it fills the days,
And many night times too With aching thoughts and memories Of Christmases I spent with you. Yes memories do hurt, it’s true. But I have this feeling too - I’m so glad I hold these memories, for with them I hold a part of you. So for now I’ll wipe away the tears and join with loved ones dear to celebrate this Christmas time, for I know that, in my heart, you’re here.
